

This block contains a dense collection of handwritten notes, diagrams, and tables. The notes cover topics such as BERT variants, LMs architecture, gradient-based attacks, adversarial examples, and various defense mechanisms. Diagrams illustrate the flow of information through different model components like encoders, decoders, and retrievers. Tables provide specific numerical values for parameters like dimensions and weights. The handwriting is in blue ink on white paper.